

IN AN E! NEWS-WORTHY MOVE, THE SHOW'S LONGTIME LEAD ANCHOR IS REPLACED BY HER BITTER RIVAL.

ED carpet comment queen Giuliana Rancic was all smiles when she announced her exit from E! News, citing the pursuit of other projects. But Star has learned that Rancic was driven from her position as host to make way for Maria Menounos, who had been gunning for the top job since joining the network. "Giuliana and Maria have been rivals for years, and Maria likes to push her weight around," reveals an insider. "They're rarely in the same room at the same time, and if they are, they don't speak. Their assistants know to keep them apart!"

Italian-born Giuliana, 40, ruled the nightly entertainment show for more than a decade. But last May Maria, 37—for three years the cohost of Extra— was hired by E!, and the two beauties immediately clashed. From the get-go, Maria saw herself as a shoo-in to replace Giuliana sooner rather than later, and an incensed Giuliana told the executives at E! that she didn't intend to renew her contract. Yet in June 2014, after a miscarriage by the surrogate mother Giuliana and her husband, Bill Rancic, hired to carry their second child, she reversed her decision and re-upped as the lead anchor through 2016.

Giuliana's personal tragedy was compounded by scandal when she slammed singer Zendaya on Fashion Police for wearing dreadlocks and reeking of "patchouli or weed" at the Oscars in February. "The backlash from that led producers to realize E! News needed a face-lift," says the network source. Maria saw her shot and pounced. "Maria is incredibly ambitious and has been known to clash with costars she sees as potential rivals," notes an industry pro. "She even had a serious falling out with Mario Lopez on Extra."

Giuliana, whose last E! News episode will air Aug. 10, will continue to host Fashion Police and E! Live from the Red Carpet, as well as executive produce Rich in Faith, a new show for Oxygen. One thing she won't be doing? Watching Maria hold court on her former set. As the source explains, "Let's just say those two will never be taking selfies together!"

YO HO HO! SET SAIL FOR SMARTER SNACKING!

Climb aboard with Pirate's Booty this fall and stock yarrr lil crewmates' lunch boxes with a deliciously crunchy, baked-not-fried snack they'll love.

Kim Kardashian and Kanye West's sprawling new mansion may prove the old adage that money can't buy you class. Star got the scoop from workers at the Hidden Hills, Calif., estate, who reveal that the pad is practically a shrine to the high-profile pair. "There's a gigantic nude of Kim in the living room. It's impossible to avoid," cringes one employee. "And Kanye has the West Wing — a huge ego room for his awards and posters. He spends hours in there, just staring at his accolades."

Even worse, the rapper and the reality star have filled their eight-bedroom manse, tended to by a 24-hour staff of butlers, gardeners and pool boys, with bizarrely oversized furniture, resulting in a "claustrophobic" feel — not an easy feat in a 15,000-square-foot home! But the strangest aspect of their house may be the over-the-top security system. "There are codes, alarms, radars and guards everywhere," divulges the spy, noting that the couple can even tap into the security cameras via their phones when they're out of town. "There are cameras in every single room — even the closets!"

While fans may marvel at Kim and Kanye's insane displays of wealth, their tony neighbors aren't impressed. "It's by far the biggest property in Hidden Hills — and not in a good way. Everyone thinks it's horrendous," complains one neighbor. "Kim and Kanye refuse to meet their neighbors and think they're better than everyone." Let's hope they don't need to borrow a cup of sugar!

TARAJI ONE TOUGH COOKIE ON SET

Life is imitating art for Empire star Taraji P. Henson, who plays mouthy matriarch Cookie Lyon. "She can be bossy, rude and extremely controlling," says a source on the set of the hit Fox series. "There's nothing wrong with being a powerful woman, but she's a nightmare." Taraji has actually admitted she feels like Cookie is her "alter ego," and set insiders say that's becoming clearer by the day. "If she doesn't get her way, she'll fight until she does; she's always shouting about something insider her trailer. Once, she basically went on strike over a disagreement about money," tattles the set worker. "She's pretty darn scary, to be honest." *

The post was quickly deleted, and Paula blamed her now fired social media manager for the gaffe, insisting that it was from a 2011 Halloween special. "Paula's so angry about having to explain herself all over again! She's right back at square one again," dishes a source close to the chef. "She honestly thought all the racial stuff was behind her and could rebuild her image. Now it will take years to get back to that point!" Ay ay ay!

Nicole Scherzinger is 37 going on 19. Friends worry that the Pussycat Dolls star is drinking away the pain of her split from longtime boyfriend Lewis Hamilton. "She could hardly stand, she lost her shoes and was spreading her legs on the street for all to see," said a friend who partied with Nicole on the island of Mykonos, Greece. The singer was also sporting a nasty black eye sustained while filming the reality show I Can Do That, but clearly, that wasn't slowing her down; Nicole got so wasted at her Greek birthday bash that her new fling, soccer star Pajtim Kasami, had to carry her home! "We're all for letting loose, but it's like she's trying to drown her sorrows," adds the friend.

ATCH a Tyga by the toe.... If he cheats, should you let him go? That's the question Kylie Jenner is asking after learning about her boyfriend's alleged transgender trans-gressions.

On July 6, an anonymous source sent blogger B. Scott an email containing 80 screenshots of racy text messages believed to have been exchanged between transgender porn star Mia Isabella and Tyga over the course of a supposed three-year love affair. The incriminating exposé includes a full-frontal nude photo of the rapper that reveals his distinctive tattoos — and suggests there's an existing sex tape!

Tyga denies cheating on either Kylie or Blac Chyna, the mother of his 2-year-old son, King. As for the explicit image? Tyga confirms that the shot of his manhood is indeed authentic but insists he never sent it to Mia. Instead, Kylie's boyfriend claims a conspiracy is afoot.

Tyga's attorney, Lee Hutton, offers an incredible explanation: Someone purporting to be Tyga spent years sending titillating texts to Mia and stole the nude photo, either from Tyga or its original recipient, in an attempt to "maliciously shame" the 25-year-old rapper. Mia, an aspiring actress who had a brief stint on Sons of Anarchy, says she didn't leak the provocative pics and has yet to confirm or deny the affair. Meanwhile, "Kylie is feeling hurt, confused and just so humiliated right now," says a source. "She doesn't know what to believe anymore."

And that's only the tip of the iceberg!
Mia, 29, isn't the only trans woman to have allegedly slept with Tyga.
According to reports, a second woman from California, named Cassandra, claims to have gotten intimate with him and says that there are quite a few others he paid to be with too. "Tyga is begging Kylie not to leave him over these socalled lies," says the pal. "She wants to believe him, but she just can't be sure of what's fact and what's fiction." *

With her 30th birthday fast approaching, Amanda Seyfried has begun to panic. "I feel like my eggs are dying off," the actress told Marie Claire UK. "I want a child, badly. I need to get on it!" But before Amanda becomes a parent, she wants a proposal from her boyfriend of three years, Justin Long. "They've reached a moment of reckoning," says a source. "Amanda told Justin that she's not going to wait forever for a ring. He seriously needs to step up to the plate if he doesn't want to lose her." And while this kind of pressure might send most guys running for the hills, a pal of the 37-year-old actor says even Justin realizes what a great catch Amanda is. "Honestly, he's so crazy about Amanda, I wouldn't be surprised if he's planning on getting her a big rock for her birthday present." Now, that's called taking a hint! *

Mariah A KEPT WOMAN?

Aussie billionaire James Packer will do anything to spend more time with girlfriend Mariah Carey — even if that means buying out the singer's Las Vegas residency contract with Caesars Palace! "Money is no object for James," says a source. "Even if it costs him tens of millions of dollars, he's willing to do it." As of now, the singer is required to perform three days a week, but that just won't do for the businessman, 47. "Mariah's hoping James can fulfill his promise," a pal of the 45-year-old diva admits. "The thought of rehearsing day in, day out for her show isn't at all appealing anymore. Mariah would love nothing more than to jet around the world with James instead." actor Jason Statham and Victoria's Secret model Rosie Huntington-Whiteley's five-year romance appears to be on the rocks after he was caught acting like a flirty fool at a Fourth of July bash. While his girlfriend was in Paris for Fashion Week, Jason hit up Bootsy Bellows' annual Red, White and Bootsy party at Nobu Malibu, where an eyewitness spotted the action star, 47, getting cheeky with quite a few scantily clad women. "Jason was there alone, flirting with random girls all night long," says the fellow partygoer. "He was clearly tipsy and blatantly eyeing up the women wearing next-to-nothing bikinis." The witness watched as Jason brazenly grabbed one girl's butt! Jason and Rosie, 28, put their $9 million Hollywood

Just two days after tying the knot in an intimate outdoor Fourth of July ceremony in Oak Glen, Calif., Ashton Kutcher and Mila Kunis hit the highway for their honeymoon — with 9-month-old daughter Wyatt in tow. "Ashton and Mila have always dreamed of road-tripping cross-country, but there was never any time," an insider reveals. "When discussing locations for their honeymoon, Mila jokingly suggested taking an RV up to Yosemite National Park, and Ashton thought it was a great idea! They love that no one will bother them out there." And so, on July 7, campers spotted the actor, 37, and his new bride, 31, checking into the Ahwahnee Hotel, conveniently located near landmarks like Half Dome, Glacier Point and Yosemite Falls. actor and his wife, Emilie Livingston, 32, welcomed son Charlie Ocean.

HE basic story goes something like this: In 2004, while filming Mr. & Mrs. Smith, Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie fell in love, which quickly led the Fight Club superstar to divorce his wife of five years, Jennifer Aniston. In the tale, Jen is always the innocent victim the heartbroken girl next door — while Angie is the sultry seductress who stole Brad away without remorse. The account has been told this way so many times that it seems to have the permanence of myth, each star playing their part of jilted wife, unhappy husband, and controlling temptress without deviation.

But did it really happen that way? In an exclusive interview, Paul LeBlanc the father of Jen's Friends costar Matt LeBlanc — spoke about his relationship with his estranged son. He revealed that he and his son had a falling out three years ago and he voiced fears that Matt's abusing drugs, that he has abominable taste in women, and that fame has turned him into a lesser man. And yes, he knows a little something about Hollywood's most famous breakup.

History, in fact, may have to be revised.

A FATHER SPEAKS

The humidity in Clearwater, Fla., is suffocating, and Paul, 73, is forced to keep the front door of his boxed-in two-bedroom budget condo wide open to welcome any breeze that might blow through. He walks with a slight limp, the result of a broken ankle two years ago, and struggles to get by on a low pension and cashin-hand odd jobs for neighbors. In contrast, on the opposite coast of America his nowalienated son, Matt, has two sprawling ranches in California and a net worth of an estimated $65 million. The bulk of his millions has come from playing the role of Joey Tribbiani on the hit TV show Friends and its less successful spin-off, Joey. He's also had a career resurgence playing himself on the Showtime series Episodes.

"He had fun, that's for sure." Paul says of Matt's Friends days. "It was the making of him and the entire crew, really." And almost as soon as the interview begins, his son and Jen would ke out in

LeBlane Spaces
Despite their striking visual similarities, there's a bitter split between Matt and his dad (right). "I'd rather he was poor and be a human being," Paul says of his son. "I'm obviously proud of what he's achieved, but he has no compassion. The more money he makes, the more ruthless he gets. He's still my son, but I'm very hurt by what he's done and the type of person he's become."

he smiles wryly and winks, hinting at something salacious. "He even had a relationship with one of the girls...Jen. They would make out in the dressing rooms. He told me about it — it was when she was married to Brad Pitt."

JEN'S NO VICTIM

Paul doesn't say anything more about his son and Jen. but with that one statement he has personally rewritten the publicly accepted history of Jen and Brad. If his claim is true, then Jen betrayed Brad long before Angelina came onto the scene, and Jen becomes anything but a victim — a role she herself has never liked. "Don't make me your victim," she famously told Vogue back in 2006. "I'm so tired of being part of this sick, twisted Bermuda Triangle." With Matt on the scene, that triangle looks more like a quadrangle, one that raises questions. Did Brad know about Jen and Matt? Was that betrayal part of what led him into Angie's arms? How deep were Matt's feelings for Jen?

Paul doesn't have the answer to any of those questions, but it soon becomes clear that he definitely has opinions about the kind of women Matt is attracted to.

MAD MATT

"Matt goes after dirt bags," Paul says. It's a shocking thing for a father to say about a famous son, but Matt has been fairly open about his wild side over the years. In 2005, Matt admitted that he "got out of control" and went too far with a stripper during a rowdy night out at a club. There were also reports of widespread drug use that night, and although Matt never admitted to doing any drugs, his father tells a different story.

"He denied it, but I know drugs give you irrational behavior," Paul says. "One minute he's extremely generous, and the ### LIFE IMITATING ART?

What would it look like if — as Paul LeBlanc claims happened — Jen Aniston and Matt LeBlanc hooked up? It's right there on the Friends season nine finale. The episode, which many consider the moment when the series jumped the shark, first aired in 2003, three years into Jen's marriage to Brad. Whether the plotline brought the stars closer in real life is known only to them, but Jen has been outspoken about her feelings for Matt. "Talk about someone who can read me a mile away," she has said. "I know I seem obvious but...!'Il be standing there and I see him giving me this look, and he says, 'Come over here, sit down, talk.' And he just gets you to lose it, if there's something to lose."

next he's ripping strips of flesh off you."

Within a year of the stripper episode, Matt and his then wife of two years, Melissa McKnight, divorced. "When he was accused of cheating, Melissa shut the sex off. It didn't last much longer after that," says Paul, who adds that Matt is "a very considerate father" to the 11-year-old daughter he shares with Melissa, Marina Pear.

Matt's next long-term relationship, with his girlfriend of eight years, Andrea Anders, crashed and burned after a similarly wild night on Halloween 2014, when he was caught getting frisky with three women — including two bottle girls — at a party in Austin, Texas.

Paul has no doubt his son's lifestyle will catch up with him. "He was as good looking as anyone in Hollywood, but he isn't going to age well," he believes. "He'll be a fat little guy. He's not someone who's going to keep himself toned down away from the cameras, because he pigs out. I'll see him with his gut hanging over his belt."

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

Paul blames himself for some of Matt's excessive behaviors. The Vietnam veteran wasn't there for the first eight years of Matt's life, having moved to Australia, where he fathered Matt's half brother, Justin. And when asked what he and his son do when they get together, it's pretty clear from Paul's answer that the apple hasn't fallen far from the tree. "Matthew drinks like a fish, so we'll spend a day drinking beer, smoking dope then move on to a bottle of Crown Royal whiskey," he says. "We would talk about motorbikes. I'd love to go riding with Matthew and my other son, Justin, again. We only did it once, and I still have fond memories of that day."

Things began to sour between father and son when Paul — who was living at a Colorado house bought by Matt — temporarily moved to Clearwater after being struck down with severe bronchitis. Matt cut his dad's $4,000-a-month allowance by 50 percent. "I was spending most of the money on things for the house. I was just surviving, I wasn't spending money on fancy things or vacations," he explains. His one major expenditure was buying a $15,000 motorbike for his nephew, Todd, whom his late sister had given up for adoption at birth and who later tracked down his biological family. A raging Matt asked why, if Paul was struggling, he didn't use the money to support himself. "It was Todd's dream to own the exact bike I had. I wanted to welcome him into the family," Paul reasons.

What unfolded next between the father and son was brutal. Paul says Matt evicted him from the Colorado home and seized all the items inside. "It was horrible. I went to the house with a friend, and there was a locksmith changing the locks and the County Sheriff was there," he says. "Matthew was on his way, but the whole house was locked down and I wasn't allowed back in.

"I lost thousands of dollars' worth of possessions, from personal items like jewelry to work tools and a tractor. And it was all because of a motorbike. I lost everything, apart from a pair of binoculars he gave me for Christmas one year and a flashlight."

HARD FEELINGS

Matt's and Jen's reps are categorically denying his dad's assertions - and Paul has little hope that he and Matt will ever speak again. "Unless he finds out I'm dying, I can't see that changing," he says. "He's not the Joey everybody loves. On TV, he's a loving man, but in reality he's not. Matthew is not a compassionate individual. My son is a control freak." He adds that Matt and Justin also no longer speak, due to a separate matter.

"Justin invited him to one of his son's birthdays and texted him to say it's only going to be cake and ice cream because money was tight," he explains. "But when Matthew shows up with his daughter and they didn't have any food prepared for him, he just blew him off and had nothing to do with him after that.

"I would welcome him back, but I could never forget what he's done to me or Justin," Paul sighs. "I lie in bed going over it in my head every night. I've written him letters and sent him religious books, but I don't know if he's ever read them or if he just throws them in the trash. It hurts not being able to see your granddaughter." ★

SHOCKING NEW PICTURES OF THE RHOBH STAR'S
TRASHED HOME OFFER A GLIMPSE INTO HOW FAR
SHE HAD SUNK BEFORE ENTERING REHAB.

E all have an image of the luxury and elegance enjoyed by the wealthy: a spacious abode, beautifully appointed and maintained by domestics so that nary a saucer is out of place. Surely, that was true when The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills star Kim Richards took up residence in a $4,000-a-month, five-bedroom, threebathroom property in the San Fernando Valley. But within those walls, the troubled former child star ran riot, trashing the place beyond recognition and then abandoning it when she could apparently no longer afford the rent. "Kim left a complete mess," an inside source tells Star. "The damage is terrible — stains all over, piles of destroyed furniture — not to mention the smell, since she let her dog pee and poop inside and didn't clean up after him."

Obtained exclusively by Star, these sad photos show just how deeply disturbed the alcoholic Kim had been prior to her downward spiral last spring, which included an arrest for public intoxication and battery on a police officer and led to her current visit to rehab. With the outraged landlord keeping her security deposit and holding her responsible for extensive repairs that Kim, 50, will be hard-pressed to pay, she may be forced to reach out to sister and RHOBH costar Kyle Richards — or even her half sister, Kathy Hilton — to come to her aid.

THE TRAUMA BEHIND THE TRASH

While Kim's binges and off-kilter behavior are well-known to fans of the Bravo franchise, her issues go back to her controlling stage mom and two unhappy marriages that ended in divorce. Kim had found true love with fiancé businessman John J. Collett, but he was tragically shot to death in 1991 while he and Kim were on the phone. Though she had enough money to finance the lavish lifestyle that landed her on RHOBH, Kim was haunted by her traumatic past; her alcohol abuse worsened and a 2012 stint in rehab failed.

"Kim could barely take care of herself, let alone a house. She'd drink all day and pass out," says a saddened pal. "The place was a disgusting wreck, overrun with cockroaches, but Kim refused to hire a maid. She was so paranoid about her drinking, she didn't want anyone to find out how bad it was."

BREAKING DOWN, GOING BROKE

Kim didn't do all her boozing at home, however. On April 16, after imbibing heavily at the Polo Lounge, an inebriated Kim was asked to leave the elite Beverly Hills watering hole. Police were ultimately called to remove her, and in the ensuing fracas and arrest she allegedly attacked a cop. She was released on $20,000 bail and reentered rehab but fell off the wagon again in May, at her eldest daughter Brooke's wedding in Mexico. Kim made such a spectacle of herself that Brooke is no longer speaking with her —and the "sober coach" she'd hired quit.

Once again detoxing in Malibu, Kim appears to be doing well, but she'll still have to pay for the havoc she wrought and find a new place to live — with Kingsley, a pit bull who has allegedly bitten three people. "If Kim thinks she'll be able to rent another nice property, she's nuts," says an insider. "Neither Kyle nor Kathy want her living with them, though, so as soon as she gets out of rehab she's going to be facing another very difficult situation." *

BILL COSDYS BONDSHELL BONFESSIO CONFESSIO CONFESSIO

NEWLY UNSEALED COURT DOCUMENTS FINALLY PROVE THAT THE TV ICON DRUGGED WOMEN FOR SEX.

OR years, Bill Cosby has vehemently denied allegations of sexual misconduct, despite the ever-growing number of women who have publicly come forward with heartbreaking reports of being drugged, raped and molested by him. But a newly unsealed court document reveals that the 77-year-old comedian has admitted to giving women powerful sedatives for decades for the purpose of having sex with them — sex that dozens have claimed was nonconsensual.

According to a sworn deposition filed in 2005 by former Temple University employee Andrea Constand — one of the 47 women who have publicly accused Bill Cosby of sexual assault — he confessed to drugging her with three half pills of Benadryl and other women with methaqualone, better known as Quaaludes. The famous father figure also admitted to acquiring seven prescriptions for Quaaludes in the 1970s, and he reportedly administered them to numerous women without their consent for nearly three decades.

IN HIS OWN WORDS

"When you got the Quaaludes, was it in your mind that you were going to use these Quaaludes for young women that you wanted to have sex with?" asked Andrea Constand's attorney, Dolores Troiani. "Yes," he replied. One of the women he admitted giving the drugs to was a 19-year-old health club masseuse he met on the road in 1976, when he was 38.

"I meet Ms. [name redacted] in Las Vegas," he said in the deposition.

"She meets me backstage. I give her Quaaludes. We then have sex." And sadly, she is not the only one.

Several of Bill Cosby's other alleged victims,

Cosby's legacy crumbles: In the wake of the latest abuse revelations, Disney's Hollywood Studios theme park removed a bronze bust of the comedian. including Andrea Constand, Theresa Serignese, Janice Dickinson, Tamara Green. Victoria Valentino and Donna Motsinger, claim that they were given "cheerup" pills - often billed as medication — before being raped or sexually assaulted. Though the TV star's legal team argued that two of the women willingly took the mind-altering substance - classified as part sleeping pill, part sedative - numerous others have asserted that he slipped crushed-up tablets into their cappuccino, soda or wine when they weren't looking.

After settling with Andrea Constand in 2006 for an undisclosed sum, the deposition was sealed — and Cosby had reason to believe his confession would never come to light. But ultimately, it was his public espousal of "family values" that sparked a Pennsylvania judge to unseal the document after the Associated Press petitioned for its release. "The stark contrast between Bill

Cold Comfort For Janice

"I don't feel any hip-hip hooray," model Janice Dickinson, who has alleged that Bill Cosby drugged and raped her in Lake Tahoe in 1982, said upon learning of his confession. "I don't have the strength at the moment, until each and every one of the women who have accused Bill Cosby, along with myself and a few other women — I want an apology for each and every one of us in order for my soul to heal."

Cosby, the public moralist and Bill Cosby, the subject of serious allegations concerning improper (and perhaps criminal) conduct is a matter as to which the AP — and by extension the public — has a significant interest," explained U.S. District Judge Eduardo Robreno.

NEW HOPES FOR JUSTICE

And so the question remains: Will Bill Cosby's decade-old admission lead to new civil lawsuits and motivate law-enforcement officials to dig even deeper in search of further transgressions?

"In the eyes of the jury, Bill Cosby has lost all faith and credibility," explains Darren Kavinoky, TV legal analyst and host of Investigation Discovery's Deadly Sins. While that may not include jail time due to the statute of limitations, Kavinoky believes the new evidence will benefit at least four women who are suing Cosby for defamation because he has denied having used drugs to engage in sex with them. "Cosby has publicly called these women liars," Kavinoky adds, "and for that, these women have a strong case."

THE WITNESS:

A. I meet Ms (Redacted) in Las Vegas. She meets me back stage. I give her Quaaludes. We then have sex. I do not -- I can't judge at this time what she knows about herself for 19 years, a passive personality.

BY MS. TROIANI:

Q. When you got the Quaaludes, was it in your mind that you were going to use these Quaaludes for young women that you wanted to have sex with?

A. Yes.

2. QUESTIONS RELATING TO QUAALUDES

After defendant testified that he obtained seven prescriptions for Quaaludes, the following testimony was elicited:

Q. You gave them to other people?

A. Yes.

HE Kardashians
may claim that it was Kourtney who kicked her out-of-control
boyfriend, Scott Disick, to the curb. But the selfproclaimed Lord Disick already knew the relationship was over when he was spotted on a whitesand beach in Monte Carlo cozying up to his ex Chloe Bartoli on July 2 — and that was his plan all along. In fact, Scott had been plotting to leave for months!

As Star previously reported, Scott, 32, had no intention of flipping the $3.5 million home he purchased in December; he was simply styling his new 4,100-square-foot bachelor pad so he could move in solo. "Everyone in the family feels completely betrayed by Scott," an insider tells Star. "Kris truly looked at him like a son."

While the famous family is enraged by Scott's deception, they're willing to give him one last chance to sober up and return to the fold because he's still the father of Kourtney's three kids, Mason, 5, Penelope, 3, and Reign, 7 months. But this time, he needs to commit to rehab or else they'll turn their backs on him and do everything they can so he doesn't even have visitation rights for his children. "They aren't messing around," the insider reveals. "If it weren't for the Kardashians, Scott would be a broke, drunk nobody."

To make sure the hard-partying reality star gets the help he needs, say sources, the Kardashians are also threatening his bank account. The E! network won't even consider filming him separately because they don't want to risk angering TV's most powerful family. "Kourtney has a producer credit and Scott doesn't, so it's easy to get rid of him," a source explains. "Unless he goes to rehab, E! will drop him completely."

Matriarch Kris Jenner has also put pressure on anyone who works with Scott and made it clear that no one in her family will work with them again if they associate with him. "They're blackballing him every way they can," the insider adds. The blowback may have already begun. His July 10 appearance at Las Vegas's 10ak nightclub was suddenly canceled due to what some believe was pressure from the Kardashians. "The Kardashian/Jenners are far more valuable to the club than Scott, and people are saying the promoters pulled the plug on his event because they had to pick a side," says the source.

"Scott had better get used to this — the battle lines have been drawn."

BITING THE HAND THAT FEEDS

Not surprisingly, Scott still thinks he's invincible and isn't even considering going into rehab.

"He's gotten away with so much for so long, he believes he's immune to anything they can throw at him," notes the insider. "But the truth is, it's not going to take much for the Kardashians to ruin him completely."

Between his public drunken escapades—he recently turned up for a charity event in Montreal too wasted to even communicate with guests—and his unreliable reputation, Scott is already having trouble landing gigs. Yet he still believes he'll always have a career promoting nightclubs and flipping houses, like the two Long Island properties worth $3 million he recently inherited from his late parents.

But despite Scott's plans, his friends fear he doesn't grasp the uphill battle that lies ahead. "Scott is going to realize that the Kardashians aren't a family you want to betray," cautions the insider. "They're loyal to their own, but once you're on the outside they won't hesitate to put a knife in your back. Scott had better watch out!"

FED UP WITH SCOTT'S LYING, CHEATING AND PARTYING, KOURTNEY AND HER FAMILY ARE WILLING TO DESTROY HIM IF HE DOESN'T CLEAN UP HIS ACT!

From the time she debuted as a 10-year-old backup dancer in the 1982 big-screen version of Annie to her final film role 12 years later in the low-budget drama Windrunner, actress Amanda Peterson appeared in only seven movies — but one of them was 1987's hit teen romcom Can't Buy Me Love, in which she costarred with the future "Dr. McDreamy," Patrick Dempsey.

Perhaps that's why the news of 43-year-old Amanda's lifeless body being found in her Greeley. Colo., apartment on July 5 (she had returned to her native city after leaving Hollywood for good in the mid-1990s) struck such an emotional chord for someone who'd been so long out of the public eye. "Can't Buy Me Love was one of the most beloved teen movies of Amanda's generation," a friend from L.A. tells Star. "She was so freshfaced and charming in the film, and that's how I knew her in real life as well. A really sweet girl." Amanda's mom, Sylvia Peterson, described her daughter as "so much fun" and "a very, very cute person" after news of her passing broke. Amanda's death was still under investigation at press time — but as court records obtained by Star indicate, the former ingénue had secretly been wrestling with a number of demons in the years after she returned home to Colorado. *

Date of Birth: 07/08/1971

Plea of Guilty

Of all of Amanda's legal troubles, the most serious was her arrest after selling a 3.5 gram "8-ball" of the dangerous and addictive synthetic stimulant methamphetamine to an undercover investigator with the Weld County (Colo.) Sheriff's Task Force in February 2005. Amanda (whose full name was Phyllis Amanda Peterson) was held on $25,000 bond on a Class 3 felony charge of possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute; she eventually pled guilty to a lesser Class 4 charge, was put on two years of probation and was ordered to perform 48 hours of community service.

The Defendant agreed to sell Investigator Schwartz an 8-ball (3.5 grams) of methamphetamine. The Defendant said she had to go get it. The Defendant left the residence and returned at approximately 1846 hrs.

Investigator Schwartz paid the Defendant $240 of Weld County Drug Task Force buy fund money. The Defendant handed Investigator Schwartz a small baggie containing suspected methamphetamine

AMANDA'S VASTED YEARS

Court records show that Amanda had DUI arrests in L.A. in 1990 (at age 18) and 1994, with resultant courtordered alcohol counseling, before moving home to Colorado. Ominously, her troubles were just beginning, as multiple arrests followed over the years, with charges including two more DUIs (most recently in 2012); assault; possession of narcotic equipment; and felony possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute, for which she spent nearly three months in jail after her arrest.

HER SECRET LOVE CHILD

Twenty months after giving birth to a daughter, Amanda went to court in 2008 to compel the man she said was the father to pay child support. The man argued that they had only been intimate one time, but he was later found to be the biological dad. The child now lives with him.

ORGIES WITH HER BAD-NEWS BOYFRIEND?

In March 2010, police officers were called to an apartment building in Fort Collins, Colo., after a woman reported that she had been assaulted by Amanda, who was her neighbor in the building — as was Amanda's 22-years-older boyfriend, Charles "Chuckles" Johnson, who had multiple arrests in Colorado and a 2003 conviction in Kansas for selling drugs.

The woman and her husband both claimed Amanda had punched her in the face during an argument. When the police arrived, they found Amanda and Johnson, both "highly intoxicated," in a physical confrontation of their own in the doorway of her apartment. While subsequently interviewing Amanda — whose breasts were exposed under her unbuttoned shirt — an officer reported that she "could not stay focused," her "speech was confused" and that "she spoke about things that she said occurred a week prior concerning [the neighbors], three- and four-way sex..." Amanda was arrested on an assault charge, and later pled guilty to harassment. She was placed on one year of probation and ordered to undergo drug and alcohol counseling.

HER STRUGGLE WITH MENTAL ILLNESS

When the police were interviewing boyfriend Charles Johnson after Amanda's 2010 brawl with her neighbor (see box, above), he claimed that she "was bipolar and had attention deficit disorder," and that she was taking medication for the conditions. After Amanda's subsequent guilty plea, terms of her probation included having to complete "mental health treatment." But in November 2011, she ran afoul of the court again when it was reported that she had been lying to her probation officer about attending the counseling sessions. By the following July, her attorney supplied proof to the court that Amanda had been back on track with her counseling — even though she had been arrested just two months earlier on a DUI charge while driving with her then 5-year-old daughter in the car.

motivate us to do those extra reps and forgo the fudge in hopes of getting a body like a Bond girl. The trick is to tighten up without losing those sexy curves. A routine that combines high-intensity intervals with the right food choices is a great way to accomplish this goal.

THE EXPERT NORA TOBIN

Nutrition specialist, editor for Shape and Sports Illustrated magazines and fitness consultant for Four Seasons Hotels

A surefire way to burn fat, build lean muscle and keep the feminine look we all love is through high-intensity interval training (HIIT) — a combination of fast bursts of exercise and rest periods. The rest allows the body to maintain the muscle (curves), while the short, intense burst sheds fat (slim body). The intervals raise metabolic burn and keep the metabolism high for 24 hours postworkout. This means your workout will continue to shape your body well after you finish the last rep.

THE MOVES Perform intervals on a piece of cardio equipment or outdoors as quickly as possible for 30 seconds. Reduce speed for one minute. Repeat this sequence for 20 minutes. Perform the workout three or four times per week.

In the cutting-edge comedian's first starring role, she plays an oversexed wild child...named Amy!

MY SCHUMER is having a moment. Her hit show, Inside Amy Schumer, hilariously tackles tough issues; there's a viral campaign for her to become the next Bachelorette or Real Housewife; and she wrote and stars in what may be the biggest comedy of the summer, Trainwreck. Directed by Judd Apatow, Amy plays a bawdier version of herself, a hard-partying independent woman who specializes in onenight stands. Amy spoke about landing her first headlining role

Do you mind talking about issues like body image?

It's therapeutic for me to be like, "Yes, I'm not going to look like a malnourished bird..."
I like speaking to that as well as speaking of my work. In this season of my show, I rewrote 12 Angry Men and had to trash myself for 35 pages, and with this movie Judd encouraged me to ask myself hard questions...which made me realize that I was broken. Thank you, Judd!

In the movie, your dad warns you about relationships; did that happen?

He never sat my sister and me down and said "monogamy is not realistic," but we saw that in his behavior, with all the new women we were supposed to call Mom. My dad taught us to play poker really young... he just treated us like dudes.

Did you set out to flip the gender roles in this movie?

A lot of people have asked me that, but that's not been my experience at all. This is how I am and how a lot of girls I know are, where the guy wants to be more sensitive and more invested. There's a scene where I get high and John Cena needs to be comforted, and I ask if I can leave. That happened in my real life.

How difficult was it to write so much of yourself into your character?

I'm very lucky that Judd came along and became my fairy godfather, because the first couple of drafts, I feel, were just sad. But he was so calm and just saw the pieces of what he could turn into a movie that we could be proud of. Knowing the balance of how a character with behavior like mine could still be likable...but, um... what was the question?

REVIEWS BY MARSHALL FINE

Hilariously raunchy comedian Amy Schumer wrote and stars in this comedy directed by Judd Apatow (Knocked Up). She plays a hotshot New York magazine writer with serious commitment issues in fact, she takes pride in her rule of "no overnights." Then she meets a sports doctor (Bill Hader) who throws her for a loop, because he actually makes her feel something. She can't quite figure out how to cope with the idea of a real relationship but can't resist this sweet guy. The humor is laugh-out-loud outrageous, thanks to Schumer and a slick supporting cast that includes John Cena, Colin Quinn, Tilda Swinton and LeBron James. But as funny as Schumer is, she can't escape the Apatow urge to make every movie 20 minutes (or more) too long. So while this is one of the summer's funniest films, it's also one of the most frustrating, because it could have been tighter and edgier. Still, Amy Schumer rules. The end.

LONG STORY SHORT: All hail the new queen of comedy.

The newest hero from the Marvel Universe is also one of the most entertaining. Paul Rudd plays Scott Lang, a cat burglar just out of prison. He's recruited by scientist Hank Pym (Michael Douglas) to foil a plan by Pym's protégé, Darren Cross (Corey Stoll), to build a game-changing weapon: one that can miniaturize soldiers to the size of ants but lets them retain the strength of a full-size man. He wants Scott to use that same technology to stop Cross. Rudd's likability and masterful comedic timing finds unexpected laughs and turns what sounds like a silly idea (did we mention he can communicate with and control ants?) into a witty and exciting comic-book tale. The action and effects are inventive yet believable; Douglas is perfect as the grouchy mentor; Evangeline Lilly brings sharp banter as Pym's daughter; and Michael Peña steals scenes as Scott's prison pal turned motormouthed sidekick. It has humor, energy and excitement.

LONG STORY SHORT: Good things come in small packages.

→LILA & EVE

This emotional thriller is about single mother Lila (Viola Davis), who's grieving over the murder of her son and angry that the police can't find his killer. At a support group, she meets Eve (Jennifer Lopez), who harbors a similar anger — and urges Lila to do something about it. So the pair of housewives turn themselves into gun-toting vigilantes, tracking clues and searching for the drug kingpin who ordered the shooting. And, in the process, they leave a trail of dead bodies. The action is at times outlandish, but the tough-yet-vulnerable performances by the leads transform it into an action thriller with heart.

LONG STORY SHORT: Two strong women kick ass in a man's violent world.  $\bigstar \star \star \star$

→ IRRATIONAL MAN

Emma Stone and Joaquin Phoenix star in Woody Allen's latest, which feels like it will turn into a comedy any minute but never does. Phoenix plays a hotshot philosophy professor brought in for a summer session at an exclusive college. He's catnip to the ladies, including a scientist on the faculty (Parker Posey) and one of his students (Stone). But he's fatalistic about life and has a long-running case of impotence, which he deals with by drinking too much. But then he finds a reason to live which involves helping a stranger commit a murder. It's an unusual blend of intellectual banter and Allen's unexpected one-liners, built around the mercurial Phoenix, the wonderfully dry Posey and Stone, who handles the conflict in this character with brisk energy. There's humor, but if that's all you're going for, you'll be disappointed.

LONG STORY SHORT: Woody works the dark side of the street.

ightarrow WELCOME TO SWEDEN

Premieres Sunday, July 19, at 8PM on NBC Creator/star Greg Poehler (brother of Amy) returns for the second season of this offbeat comedy as Bruce, who left a high-paying job as a money manager for movie stars to move to Stockholm for his girlfriend Emma (Josephine Bornebusch). Of course, he doesn't speak Swedish, he doesn't have a job and her parents (Lena Olin, Claes Mansson) can't understand what she sees in him. But as the new season begins, he still proposes to her. Deadpan and witty, this show offers continual twists on the fish-out-of-water notion, pitting the eager, open Bruce against the stern, chilly Swedes, who often look as though they think he's lost his mind. Look for guest stars Patrick Duffy (as Bruce's conservative father), Neve Campbell (as Emma's new boss) and Jason Priestley, Jack Black and Paul Simon, playing hilarious versions of themselves.

SCOPE week of July 20–July 26

DANIEL RADCLIFFE Turns 26 on July 23

By Jennifer Angel

LEO JULY 23-AUG. 22

A positive new phase begins! Don't let a stressful moment ruin everything else — keep life in perspective. You can strengthen any relationship with focus and sensitivity.

VIRGO AUG. 23-SEPT. 22

This is a good time to reassess love and your financial situation. Your imagination is on fire — work with people you respect, and you can achieve great things.

LIBRA SEPT. 23-OCT. 22

The outlook is favorable, but it will take clever managing on your part to ensure that your work life, relationships and money matters all work out as you want. A balanced life is a good life.

SCORPIO OCT. 23-NOV. 21

Knowledge is power! This is a great time to advance your expertise. One way to get ahead of competitors is to outsmart them — and you are more than capable of doing that. Be grateful for friends.

SAGITTARIUS NOV. 22-DEC. 21

People like to do business with those they know and trust, but be careful not to get money and love too mixed up; it is not always the best combination.

CAPRICORN DEC. 22-JAN. 19

Love stars are hot, and so are gatherings with friends. So don't be too tied to the desk; it's a great time to get out and be social. Travel plans may be put on hold.

AQUARIUS JAN. 20-FEB. 18

Love radiates in your direction. Money matters may feel like they've stalled, but a development at work can change everything and build a better future.

PISCES

FEB. 19-MARCH 20

A creative venture can take off — what happens next can set the stage for success. Don't get discouraged if your love life seems to be stagnant. There is plenty of romance coming; take it one day at a time and enjoy every moment.

ARIES

MARCH 21-APRIL 19

Home and money matters are on the radar — what you need most during this time is stability with both. Be careful not to be so determined that you can't see anther person's point of view. Your love life is due to get a whole lot brighter!

TAURUS

APRIL 20-MAY 20

Looking for commitment? The stars shine love light in your direction. If someone doesn't shape up to meet your expectations, cut them loose. Family and friends are your rock, trust in them.

GEMINI MAY 21-JUNE 20

While it may seem like you're working harder, your dedication and perseverance will pay off — stay the course. But be wary of making a financial arrangement with a friend now. Reconnecting with family can be a pleasant surprise.

CANCER JUNE 21-JULY 22

When making a decision that involves home and family, be practical. A financial situation can work in your favor, but you may have to step on a few toes in the process. Be sensible with love, but not too cautious — enjoy life!

AKE-A-BREAL

THE PUZZLE PAGE THAT'S FUN FOR ALL!

Pet personality reveals much about you.

This fun quiz can help you discover how you interact with animal companions.

- 1. What kind of bird would you like to own? (a) Small singing ones and lovebirds. (b) Parrots or other large, colorful birds.
- 2. Do you allow your pet on your bed? (a) Sure. (b) No, my pet has a bed.
- 3. Do you give your cat or dog people food as a treat? (a) Usually — but just a taste! (b) Never; only pet food.
- 4. What attracts you most when adopting an animal? (a) Color, length of fur and/or size. (b) Breeding and good looks.
- 5. Do you play with your pet only when you're in the mood? (a) My pet puts me in a fun mood. (b) Only when I feel like it there needs to be a limit.
- 6. Are you always on the look out for pet treats and toys? (a) All the time. (b) Sometimes.
- 7. Do you and your pet share certain traits? (a) Definitely. (b) We bond well.

SCORING

MOSTLY A: Pets bring out the best in you. When you make eye contact, you exchange messages more meaningful than words can express. You are a nurturer. You sympathize with homeless animals and do all you can to help by donating time or gifts to shelters.

MOSTLY B: You treat all animals with respect, and they reciprocate! They have a special place, but being a pet parent occasionally tires you out due to life's demands and a busy schedule. You make an effort to meet a pet's needs as long as there's an equal share of love and time.

Residents in the small town of Monroe, Mich., got the surprise of their lives when tuning in to the local cable public-access show Only in Monroe. Instead of the regular hosts discussing local events and community politics, they saw soon-to-be Late Show host Stephen Colbert, who discussed all things Monroe in a hilariously bizarre hour of TV. After having the regular hosts, nurse Michelle Baumann and former Miss America Kaye Lani Rafko-Wilson, as his guests, he discussed local traffic with the notoriously antagonistic rapper Eminem. You know what they say: Only in Monroe!

KELLY'S A BLUE BELLE

It's shaping up to be a rather colorful summer for Live! With Kelly and Michael star Kelly Ripa. Weeks after she sported a hotpink hair hue, she dyed again to turn her naturally blonde tresses ocean blue. Kelly debuted her new 'do on Instagram, writing "Shady's back, tell a friend..."

When pop star Ariana Grande and her backup-dancer boyfriend, Ricky Alvarez, showed up at Wolfee Donuts in Lake Elsinore, Calif., she caused herself one big Problem. She was presented with a tray of doughnuts — since she was in, you know, a doughnut shop — and upon seeing them blurted out, "What the f*ck is that? I hate Americans. I hate America. That's disgusting!" Even more disgusting? Ariana slyly licked and spit on at least two of the doughnuts! Once video of the incident emerged, she pulled out of an appearance at the MLB All-Star Game and officials downgraded the shop's sanitary rating for putting doughnuts in a place where they were lickable by ignorant pop stars. Ariana responded to the furor in a statement, "I am EXTREMELY proud to be an American and I've always made it clear that I love my country. What I said in a private moment with my friend, who was buying the donuts, was taken out of context, and I am sorry for not using more discretion with my choice of words."

Justin & John Butt Heads

First, Justin Bieber stripped down and posed au naturel on a boat in an unknown exotic location, Instagrammed the image and wrote, simply: "Look!"

While his back was turned and fans didn't get a glimpse of the "full Bieber." the cheeky pose was still enough to go viral. Not to be outdone, Instagram pro model Chrissy Teigen snapped a photo of her husband, musician John Legend, showing off his backside as he was puttering around naked in their hotel room while the two were away in Europe.
